TECHNICAL APPROACH — SOLUTION ARCHITECTURE

MeridianTech proposes a service-mesh-anchored microservices platform on Istio + Kubernetes with 13 services spanning ingestion, classification, anomaly, audit and presentation layers. Persistence is split: TimescaleDB for time-series, PostgreSQL for OLTP, MinIO with S3-API for object store. Every request carries an OpenTelemetry trace propagated end-to-end; SLO dashboards (latency, error rate, saturation) ship preconfigured in Grafana.

Reference architecture diagrams (logical view, deployment view, data view) are appended at Annexure-III. The architecture follows the GoI Cloud Reference Architecture v2.0 and complies with MeitY's Application Security Guidelines.

TECHNICAL APPROACH — METHODOLOGY & DELIVERY PLAN

Hybrid Scrum-of-Scrums across 3 feature teams. Each team runs 3-week sprints with demo days and joint review. Cross-team integration sprints every 6 weeks. UAT in 4 stages — unit acceptance, integration acceptance, security acceptance (CERT-In empanelled vendor), and ministry acceptance. PIR (post-implementation review) at T+45 days post go-live.

Quality gates at every phase boundary include independent peer review, automated static analysis (Semgrep + SonarQube), and counterpart-led acceptance. A live RAID log (Risks, Assumptions, Issues, Dependencies) is maintained throughout.

TEAM & KEY PERSONNEL

Proposed team strength: 20 on-roll engineers + project managers

PMP-certified project leads: 6

Solution architects on the project:

Detailed CVs (signed and dated within the last 60 days) are appended at Annexure-V. Every key person carries a non-poach undertaking for the duration of the engagement plus the warranty period.
